Improve data integrity and capture cost with ILS MRO Management

The FAA and other regulatory organizations require accurate documentation and traceability and ILS understands these challenges. ILS MRO Management is built to transform manually repetitive processes into well-defined processes that are automated and easily documented. Certifications and other documentation such as images, Airworthiness Directives and part specifications can be scanned into the system and can travel electronically with the part throughout its lifecycle. ILS MRO Management also provides the ability to store, manage and view repair manuals.

ILS MRO Management is built to integrate with your existing systems including your financial solution. With the ability to track costs for issued parts, labor and outsourced labor in ILS MRO Management, you can truly have complete visibility of your actual cost. This capability transforms normally disparate information into a central repository that can be evaluated and utilized to increase your profitability.

Why wait? Improve your MRO business today
